

Mark King

Mark specialises in personal injury litigation.

Motor Cases

Within the area of motor cases, Mark specialises principally in fraudulent and high value claims.

Mark has many years' experience fighting motor fraud involving:

- staged accidents
- 'virtual accidents'
- 'missing policyholder' disputes
- and the consequential technical arguments that arise regarding Article 75, Domestic Regulations, RTA Insurer liability, and liability under the MIB schemes.

As well as being instructed by insurers, he is consistently instructed by specialist solicitors in this area working to defeat motor fraud: he is regularly instructed at the early stages of a case to give advice on tactics and the collection of evidence; his various standard-form fraud pleadings have been adopted by many solicitors working in this area as their standard template; he is also regarded as a safe pair of hands in cases which come to trial where his forensic skills make him counsel of choice for a number of insurers.

Industrial Disease

Mark also specialises in high value industrial disease cases, particularly those with technical aspects and involving complex causation issues.
